

President and Provost's Leadership Council for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

2023-2024 Term Charge and Membership

The President and Provost's Leadership Council for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (PPLC) is a university-level advisory group whose mission is to support the advancement of Oregon State University's highest aspirations for diversity, equity and inclusion.

The activities of the PPLC directly advance and support the university's strategic plan and the university's diversity action plan.

President Jayathi Y. Murthy and Provost and Executive Vice President Edward Feser serve as the PPLC's executive sponsors. Scott Vignos, vice president and chief diversity officer, chairs the PPLC, and the Office of Institutional Diversity provides support and coordination for its activities.

Charge

During its 2023-2024 term, the PPLC will:

- Complete implementation of priority actions from the Employee of Color Retention and Success Strategy adopted by the PPLC during its 2022-23 term;
- Contribute to the development and adoption of the university's next Diversity Action Plan and deliberate a strategy to guide implementation efforts;
- Provide advice and counsel to the Office of Institutional Diversity regarding strategic alignment of diversity, equity and inclusion efforts across the university;
- Engage with diverse university communities to gather feedback, collaborate on initiatives and develop strong, continuing and supportive working relationships;
- Engage the president and provost on a periodic basis to provide progress updates;
- Publish a report summarizing the work of the PPLC, any recommendations, and progress made on the university's diversity, equity and inclusion goals.

Format

The PPLC will meet monthly from October 2023 to June 2024. Each meeting will consist of dialogue and deliberation to advance the PPLC's charge.
